Every artwork size we produce, per platform. Build once at the largest size in each family, then crop down — never scale up.

The four canonical shapes.

Almost every placement below is one of four aspect ratios. Design these four masters first — the rest are crops.

Margins and safe areas.

Margins are subjective and depend on the content. These are the starting points — testing is still fully recommended.

MINIMUM MARGIN

At least 50px on all sides of a 1080px canvas, and the same between elements. Scale proportionally on smaller canvases.

STORIES / REELS

160–200px clear top and bottom. The profile row and CTA sit in that band — anything there gets covered.

LOGO CLEAR SPACE

The logo needs its own o-height of clear space, on top of the canvas margin. Digital minimum width is 140px, so on GDN sizes under 200px wide use the O device instead of the wordmark.

TEXT OVER IMAGERY

Use a gradient scrim, never a solid capsule. If the scrim isn't enough contrast, move the text off the image.

TYPE FLOOR

Nothing below 24px on a 1080 canvas. On GDN banners under 100px tall, headline only — drop body copy entirely.

EXPORT

PNG for artwork with flat brand colour or UI screenshots. JPG at 85% for photography. Under 1MB per asset.

Production order.

Build in this order and one concept covers every placement in a day.

01

Square master

1200 × 1200. Covers PMAX square, Reddit carousel, and crops to Meta 1080.

02

Landscape master

1200 × 628. Covers PMAX and Reddit feed, and crops to the 400 × 300 thumbnail.

03

Portrait + vertical

960 × 1200 and 1080 × 1920. Feed portrait plus Stories, with the chrome band respected.

04

GDN set, relaid out

Thirteen sizes. Do not crop these from the masters — the small canvases need their own layout.
